salesforce.org

79,390 employees, $197 billion market cap, $31.35 billion annual revenues, 150,000+ client companies

Financial factors we considered

- Commercial Salesforce.com licensing starts at $150/user/month
- Some deployments with add-ons cost $500/user/month in high-value environments
- Salesforce.org offers all the benefits of Enterprise-level data security for $36/user/month and 10 free licenses
- Literally thousands of Salesforce developers available for hire on websites like upwork.com
- Diocesan “ownership” of critical infrastructure technology
- No self-hosting costs

So what is the vision?

- Data sharing across multiple offices in the diocesan environment
- Reduce admin work in maintaining accuracy over a plethora of platforms
- Collate information for solid reports off which we can make data-driven decisions
- Break down silos between different departments (cliché but real)

IS THIS ALL EVEN POSSIBLE???
